Degree and area of specialization:

DVM or equivalent degree with advanced training in veterinary small animal surgery. Preference will be given to candidates who are either certified by the American College of Veterinary Surgery or are eligible to take the ACVS board certifying examination.

License/certification:

Must maintain a Wisconsin license to practice Veterinary Medicine

Minimum number of years and type of relevant work experience:

Advanced training in general surgery (soft tissue surger) is required.

Position Summary:

The Department of Surgical Sciences at the University of Wisconsin School of Veterinary Medicine seeks applicant for a position as an Assistant/Associate Professor in Small Animal Soft Tissue Surgery.

Principal duties:

Responsibilities include didactic teaching of students in lectures and laboratories, education and training of surgical residents, clinical service in the Veterinary Medical Teaching Hospital which includes receiving and management of clinical cases, consultation regarding care of small animals with practicing veterinarians, and the development of an independent program of research in veterinary medicine. Clinical duties include leading resident-based or student-based rounds which involve approximately 3 hours per week. Student case based rounds are conducted by faculty in conjunction with residents and interns when the faculty are assigned to clinic duties. It is anticipated that research will be supported by acquisition of external funding and will incorporate training opportunities for interns, residents, veterinary students, and/or graduate students.

No more than 12-14 weeks on clinics, participation in classroom lecture and laboratory as identified by the section. Participation in after hours emergency duty when on clinics is considered a part of the clinic duties.

Distribution of time in clinical practice, teaching, research and service is expected to be in the range of the following, depending on unit needs:

Clinical practice: 25%
Non-clinical teaching: 20%
Research: 45-50%
Service: 5-10%

Additional Information:

This position is being announced simultaneously with PVL 93395; please note only one vacancy exists. Having two position vacancy listings allows the School of Veterinary Medicine to consider candidates with both tenure-track credentials and non-tenure track credentials for this position.

Candidates for associate professor rank will possess academic credentials as required for a faculty appointment with tenure at the UW-Madison.

UW Veterinary Care/School of Veterinary Medicine is a wonderful workplace with enthusiastic students, technicians, resident and other faculty specialists who work together to provide excellent veterinary medical care, and to advance the field of veterinary medicine with compassionate care and new discoveries. The University of Wisconsin-Madison campus and surrounding area have many enriching opportunities. UW-Madison campus provides an environment which encourages research. Madison consistently ranks as a top community in which to live, work and play.
